HOW TO HELP

As the news continues to show heartbreaking images of homes and communities impacted by the wildfires that rage through California, the Confide Research team took advice given long ago from Mr. Rogers, “Look for the helpers.”

First responders are working tirelessly, with fire departments nationwide and internationally sending teams to assist. The Los Angeles Fire Department (LAFD) Foundation is dedicated to aiding the LAFD’s immediate and long-term requirements, supporting both local stations and the Department as a whole. While we can’t be there in person, our team is contributing financially to assist those on the front lines, risking their lives for others. Donations during these critical times can have a significant impact.
