HOLIDAY GIVING

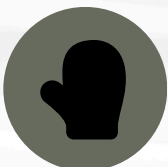

ANGEL TREE

The Confide Research team recently participated in the local Angel Tree program to assist families in need during the holiday season. This initiative aims to help children from families facing financial challenges by providing them with gifts, ensuring a dignified approach to support. Notably, the recipients, especially the children, are unaware that their gifts come from generous donors and not their parents.

HISTORY

With a history spanning over 44 years, the Angel Tree program, as highlighted on the Salvation Army's website, has been a beacon of hope for countless individuals nationwide. Every year, it enables donors to provide Christmas gifts to hundreds of thousands of children, seniors, and individuals with special needs, spreading joy and warmth during the festive season.

HOW CAN I GET INVOLVED?

If you're looking to make a difference this holiday season, consider connecting with your local Salvation Army to discover ways to support families in your community. Your contribution can bring happiness and comfort to those in need, embodying the spirit of giving and kindness.
